No Holds Barred To Doctor Junior

CHICAGO (AP) — "Plan the procedure first. If two adults are going to gang up, decide what each will do. The resisting child can be wrapped in a sheet. When children find they are losing a struggle, they give up useless effort. Keep calm."

The script for a horror movie? No, just a pediatrician's advice to those baffled parents who always lose the struggle to make little Johnny or Susy take their prescribed medicine. Dr. Forrest P. White gives a list of tips, complete with illustrations, of the most immobilizing wrestling holds. In the current Today's Health, an American Medical Association publication. Here is some of his advice:

Assume from the start you are going to succeed. This air of confidence may permeate the child's mind. well cooperate. Keep talking to him calmly, even though he's yelling his head off.

Have all the equipment within reach before you start. Medicine is expensive, so put the bottle where it can't be knocked over. Working alone, a mother can trip the child's legs between her knees and immobilize both arms and head by pinning the tot against her chest with one arm.

If mom and dad are making it a joint project "or ganging up from the child's point of view," father can immobilize the head, arms and legs while mother has both arms free to get the spoon home.

But a sly trick sometimes makes struggle unnecessary. When baby is working happily on the bottle—an eye-dropper can be inserted between the lips next to the nipple, and the medicine or liquid vitamins squirted in.

Cypriots Celebrate Reprieve

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Celebrations went on all day in a Nicosia suburb Thursday after a last-minute reprieve by Governor Sir Hugh Foot saved two Greek-Cypriots from the hangman.

Foot made a dramatic midnight dash to Nicosia prison less than 30 minutes before two convicted terrorists were due to

Cabinet Passed Art Sale

NEW YORK (CP) — Art dealer Hans Schaeffer said Thursday the Canadian federal cabinet approved the proposed purchase of two European paintings for $415,000.

Schaeffer, head of Schaeffer Galleries Incorporated, who acted as agent in negotiations for one of the paintings, expressed surprise at an Ottawa announcement that the government had refused to buy the paintings.

"On or before May 2, 1958, the cabinet, in a meeting, decided to purchase the two paintings, and instructed the director of the Canadian National Gallery to this effect," Schaeffer said in a statement.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has confirmed that the government refused to buy the paintings and stated that the government decision had been maintained "to the full knowledge of the vendors or the agents involved." The government was "not prepared to ask Parliament to appropriate nearly half a million dollars of taxpayers' money for the purchase."

In London art dealer Geoffrey Agnew refused to say whether his firm plans to press suit against the National Gallery of Canada for the non-purchase of Lorenzo Monaca's "The Madonna Annunciat," valued at $95,000.

Agnew said he bought the painting May 6 on the instructions of the National Gallery. Later he was told the Canadian government had decided not to fulfil the contract.

KELOWNA — Vancouver dealers are helping Americans to cripple interior vegetable growers, delegate R. C. Luchich from Cawston, B.C., told the 21st annual meeting of the B.C. Interior vegetable Marketing Board here.

He rapped Coast handlers who, he said, accept more American produce than interior B.C. supplies.

He also attacked the provincial marketing board: "We are doing stupid things. We are paying men to protect Americans from Canadians. The government does not care if we live or not."

The Industrial Reserve

IN any plan for the development of Victoria in future considerable attention should be paid to the extensive strip of property west of Johnson Street bridge in the industrial reserve. Once an Indian encampment, with burial grounds and the remnants of an early naval hospital across from Laurel Point, the land passed from the federal to the provincial government when the tribesmen were relocated. Succeeding administrations at James Bay placed the reserve on a permanent leasehold footing and did their best to encourage light industry with tide-water connections.

Except by a few specific concerns, however, the reserve has been comparatively little used. The removal now of the Sidney Roofing and Paper Company to the Mainland, with local consequences, brings the issue to the fore. Waterfrontage on the reserve extends roughly from Lime Bay east to Johnson Street bridge and north to Point Ellice bridge; mostly privately developed. Some main sections are occupied under renewable and subsisting leases, but final reversion of much of it at the termination of such long term contracts would be to the Province. Here, then, is a most important long term asset for the community.

For several years one has heard mention of plans for the development of Victoria, but little as yet appears to have been decided on and settled. A key element in such development is provision for industrial opportunities in the community. That is the factor which invites special attention to the leasehold properties of the former Songhees reserve. There is here perhaps the last opportunity for Victoria to make something worth while of the future outline of its inner harbor.

We would like to see the issue canvassed afresh in the light of today's circumstances, in joint discussions between city representatives and the provincial government. It is not only a question of suitable utilization of the land, but as importantly development of waterfront facilities in wharfs and loading piers. There is no comparable tidewater area left in the city where light industry would be suitable. That Victoria needs more light industry does not need to be argued.

Victoria Has First Claim

VICTORIA City's mounting dissatisfaction with the distribution of funds at the disposal of the Capital Improvement District Commission stems from strong provocation. This is not a case of one municipality being greedy for the lion's share at the expense of equal partners. The other municipalities are not equal partners. They are in fact partners only by courtesy, though cordially recognized by the City as members of the firm.

To understand the relative positions of the municipalities it is necessary to go back to the origination of the commission and the plans to beautify the seat of government. The present provincial government fathered the whole idea and is to be commended for doing so. Through it excellent improvements have been made, and there is expectation of many more. But one would have to be naive to believe that the government's motives are wholly disinterested. The CIDC fund is in the nature of a quid pro quo—an acknowledgment of valuable services rendered by the City or, to put it another way, a bonus to a faithful servant who works all year without remuneration.

The Province makes sums of money available annually for works approved by the CIDC; but in drawing up the schedule the commission should bear in mind the fact that the appropriations are not gifts to be bestowed here and there but in reality are grants in lieu of taxes morally owing to the City alone, in respect of the enormously valuable lands and buildings of the Province—taxes which if paid, as others must pay them, would lift the City out of all its financial difficulties. In election campaigns Premier Bennett conceded the validity of Victoria's plea for compensation and promised relief. This is the form it has taken.

In the circumstances, therefore, the neighboring municipalities have no legitimate claim on funds spent by the CIDC. The City hitherto has not made an issue of this, taking a wider and more generous view of the purpose of the capital region plan. Morally, however, this money belongs to Victoria, and while the city council has never yet demanded its full rights it is entitled to a fair share at least.

A 'Spring' for Adults

ON the cover of the Victoria College prospectus of forthcoming adult evening classes these are cited as the "Spring Courses," a cheerful note in the middle of winter. Another cheerful note is the fact of the courses themselves, which offer a "spring" of learning to those for whom school has long been out. One is apt to think of the college as only for teen-age students, but here is a reminder that education never ends and that facilities exist for its continual extension.

These evening courses are not designed to make up for school deficiencies in earlier years but to widen the extent of knowledge pertinent to the present age. The scope of the 14 courses and discussion programs, indeed, reflect the variety of interest which has become part of modern society. The liberal arts of present-day living, as it were, were never more liberal; they embrace matters thought of old to belong only to the scholar or the specialist but which daily now impinge in part at least on nearly every person.

Thus it is that among the subjects listed are the piano and the composer, of particular import in this age of music; G. B. Shaw and his society, of social and philosophical significance; South-East Asia, of great political attention; world politics, which speaks for itself; Canada's role in international affairs, of special application to everyone; and the great religions of the world, which fundamentally affect the progress of society in general. Added to these embracing subjects are to be found classes on reading, the humanities, one foreign language, home building or buying, modern physics and other stimulating mental exercises.

The extent of the courses at Victoria College, in fact, which begin next month, is such as to invite a good enrollment, and is a tribute to the fine service which the college is able and willing to give to adult Victorians. The fees are modest and should be no bar to the fascination and enjoyment which is available to those with an enquiring bent of mind.

NATO Sets the Course

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIKITA Khrushchev still boasts the best writing arm.

When it comes to drafting agendas for NATO, the Russian leader is in a class by himself.

A year ago, his lengthy letters to Western leaders, including Prime Minister Diefenbaker, provided the big talking point at the NATO summit meeting in Paris.

Now he is blasting at Berlin. The result is that the former German capital topped the list of subjects discussed by the NATO Council in Paris.

If it were not for the chill implicit in the Berlin situation, some NATO experts would almost welcome Khrushchev's habit of punctuating NATO conferences with polemics and palaver.

It shows his respect for NATO and may help convince doubting Thomases of its paramount role in Western defence.

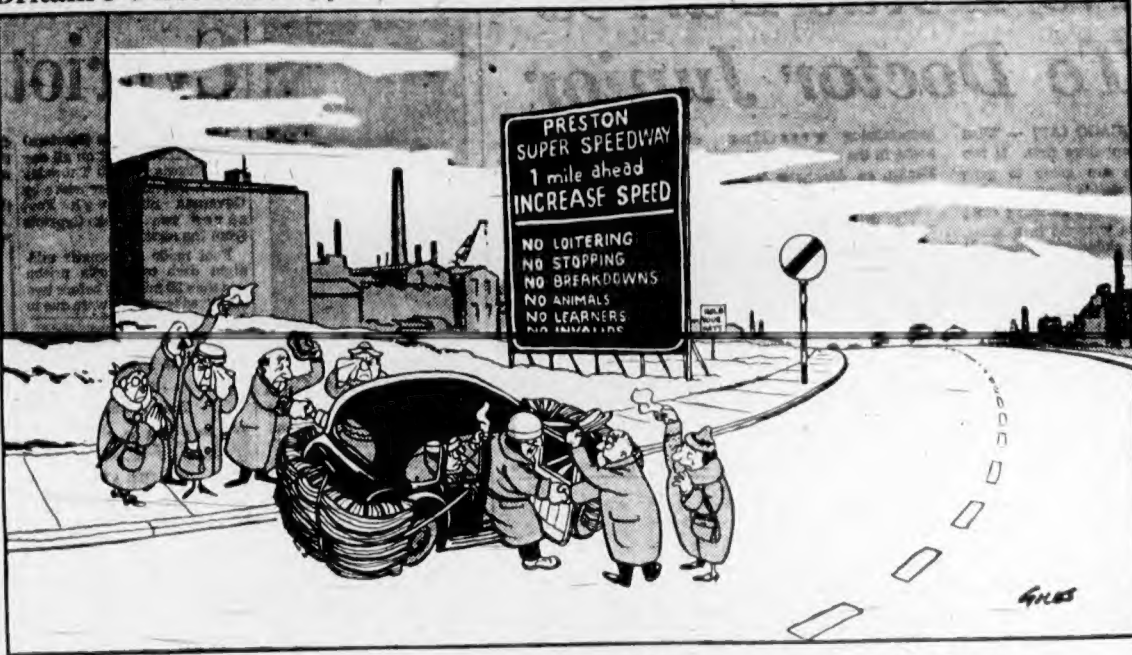

"We in NATO tend to be a little critical about political consultation among the 15 member countries," said an official who has watched the NATO Council at work.

"So it is reassuring to have the Russians come along every time NATO meets and say in effect that this is where the West's foreign policy is determined."

In other words, if the Russians believe in NATO maybe Western sceptics should believe in it, too.

Apart from helping to write the agenda for NATO meetings, Khrushchev acts to some degree as the alliance's unpaid publicity man and morale booster, though the comparison obviously has limits.

By fixing the spotlight on Berlin, he has deflected attention from NATO internal worries. These include reports of a new orientation in Italy's foreign policy toward a more neutralist course.

"Well, so long, Harry—you'll find our insurance in the little tin box in the cupboard under the stairs."

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IN Maclean's this week an interesting article on the Magi and their pilgrimage of 2,000 years ago analyzes the Star of Bethlehem that guided them on.

Naturally enough I suppose in this year of 1958 the thesis is advanced that it was a comet, or a planet, or even a nuclear explosion the Wise Men saw, but we need not concern ourselves about that this morning.

Suffice that a star shone and lit them on the way. It is still shining. At least that was the conclusion a group of us came to the other night as we settled the affairs of the universe by our conversation. No one was wiser than we were, that was nicely obvious as we agreed on all main points.

It was foreordained, ever since the Star of Bethlehem and before, I dare say, that one of these should be the rising generation, whose ears certainly must burn very frequently. We were unanimously of the opinion—naturally since all of us have passed by the halfway mark of the Biblical span—that good as the present-day youngsters were they weren't up to our snuff.

We had the grace to admit, though, —and smile at the fact and at ourselves too—that in another 20 years the generation we were discussing would take our place in similar discussion, indicting in turn for their failures the babes who so far have scarcely drawn full breath.

This process has gone on ever since there were an elder and a younger, and well suggests that mankind as such does not change overmuch and that it must be some guiding star that saves it from itself.

It was inevitable, also, that we should ponder the gilded platters that await youth these days and compare them with the scanty fare our own youth enjoyed, forgetting until the wisest among us recalled that the chromium age was our creation and not that of the generations we held in depreciated esteem. They were merely born into it and fashioned by it.

Realization of this rather jarred our complacency, but happily we had the wit to appreciate that the materialism we deplored was in fact being sampled very pleasantly by ourselves at that very moment. The environment was ours and not to be blamed on youngsters adapting themselves to our world.

The truth will be, of course, and if the guiding star could speak as well as shine it would tell us so, that as always man stumbles from one era to another very imperfectly. History should teach us this if nothing else will, for nations have waxed and waned, even in the period since the Star of the Magi, and seem likely to keep on in this kind of orbit indefinitely.

That should reassure us, not the opposite. For instance the professor among us, nearer to the Magi than the rest of us, reflected that his students of today were showing concern not so much for the material rewards to come but for the virtues that enrich individual life. That may be because they take money for granted, having grown up in the midst of it, but it may also indicate the balancing of scales weighted and unweighted in sequence over eons of time.

The saving grace of the world, indeed, is that it is essentially the same kind of world—in the basic character of mankind—it has always been. And fortunately a star of guidance has enabled that to be so. There is no reason to think that the star is about ready to stop shining.

Defeat for the Extremists

Berlin Immune to Coaxing and Threats

By W. N. EWER, from London

THE significance of the municipal elections in West Berlin is unmistakable. Of the six parties which had candidates running, one, the Communist controlled Socialist Unity Party, supported the Russian proposal to make West Berlin a "free city" in no way linked with Western Germany and from which Allied troops would be withdrawn.

The Socialist Unity Party in a population of 2,250,000 could only muster 31,500 votes. Their percentage dropped from the 27 of four years ago to 1.35. The verdict is emphatic.

Herr Grotewohl, the East German premier, taking his cue from the Moscow Pravda, hastened to claim that the election could be regarded as a referendum on Mr. Khrushchev's "free city" plan. Technically, that is true enough. But there is no question that at this moment the Khrushchev plan was uppermost in the minds of electors and that anyone in favor of it would have been practically certain to vote for the Socialist Unity candidate.

Yet in completely free elections only this insignificant minority did so.

One wonders what would happen in East Berlin if free elections could be held there. The only free election in the Soviet sector of the city was in 1946. Soviet pressure was intense. Every possible advantage was given to the Socialist Unity Party. But even so, it could poll only 233,000 votes against the Social Democrats' 341,000—only some 30 per cent of the total poll. Since then East Berliners have had 12 years' experience of the realities of Communist rule.

Some foreign observers had expected that the mixture of threats and promises which have been coming from Moscow and from East Germany—promises of economic benefits if the plan were accepted, threats of unpleasant consequences if it were rejected—would gain at least a few votes for the Socialist Unity Party. There was some speculation that the party might achieve a figure of 5 per cent, which would have given it a representative in the new municipal council. But Berliners have shown themselves immune both to blandishments and to threats. These 31,500 voters can be little more than the "hard core" of organized Communists.

I do not find this surprising. The people of West Berlin realize quite well that the plan for a free city has been devised as a first step to their annexation to the East German Communist state. Indeed the East German Communist leaders make little or no attempt to pretend otherwise.

And West Berliners have closer experience of the realities of Communist rule than anybody else in the free world. It is, for them, literally, just across the street in the other half of their city. They are daily conscious of the contrast between their own lives and those of the East Berliners. Even the poorest of West Berliners are far better off than the poor of East Berlin. And apart from material welfare, repression of all the freedoms in the eastern sector is something of which they have direct and continual evidence. The steady flow of refugees from the east, giving up jobs and homes in order to escape to the free life in the west, is added evidence.

That vote of over 96 per cent to under 2 per cent is an emphatic verdict against Communism by the only people who have seen its operation close at hand, and are still free to say what they think. And it is at the same time a rejection of the Khrushchev free city proposal, because they see it as a trap to isolate them from free Western Germany, and to leave them helpless to avoid annexation by the east whenever the moment might seem opportune. No Communist double-talk can conceal that.

The other feature of the election result is that it marks a further step in the weakening of minor non-Communist parties, and of the definite emergence of a two-party system, that has for some time been visible in Western Germany. In West Berlin it has reached a stage at which only two big parties, the Christian Democrat and the Social Democrat, will be represented in the new council. No other has succeeded in getting a candidate elected.

That I think to be a healthy development. Maybe, as an Englishman, I have some prejudice in favor of a predominantly two-party system.

Can't Stand Alone

Canada's Defence Troubles

(From The Montreal Gazette)

RETIRED Major-General H. S. Macklin of the Canadian Army has never believed that his duty ended when he left active service. Since his retirement four years ago, General Macklin has devoted a great deal of time and energy to criticism of Canada's defence policies, a job for which his professional background fits him well.

In a recent speech in Montreal the general declared that Canada has spent $17,000,000,000 to build "a Chinese wall" that cannot be expected to protect Canada from the H-bomb and the means to "throw it around." He said the RCAF's equipment is obsolete; that the navy is "passive and defensive" and has no Canadian ships to escort; that the army has no transport by air or sea and is equipped with Second World War weapons.

The criticisms point out real weaknesses, but all weaknesses cannot be altered by Canada alone. There isn't much Canada can do about being "strategically hogtied to the U.S. Air Force."

It is true that the militia "is officially declared to have no future military function," but it is to have a very important role as the core of civil defence, as in Britain.

Air transport for the Canadian Army is definitely lacking, but at least something is being done about it; Canada's busy building Canadian versions of the Britannia troop carrier on order from the defence department, and De Havilland of Canada has developed a new short-range military transport.

There is not a military man in the world who cannot see ways to improve his country's defences—with the use of a few billion dollars here and there. What the defence department has to do, in an era when weapons are changing every day, is decide what Canada can do best with the resources it has, which are not unlimited. The rest of the defence job must be left to Canada's more powerful allies, notably the United States.

This is not an ideal situation. The difficulties and weaknesses should be pointed out, as Gen. Macklin is pointing them out. But some of the troubles are largely due to the fact that our defence cannot be entirely in our own hands, and some other weaknesses, though existing now, are in the process of being remedied.

The Packsack

of GREGORY CLARK

IN the restaurant there was a family party at the next table to us: an elderly woman and six younger people, her children, obviously, and their wives and husbands. They were having a miserable time.

Mamma was playing duce. She was rather a homey old gal, all dressed up for the occasion, which is a very mean description of the type who does not often get out socially. She had on her best hat, best coat. And you could see they were her best.

In a rather loud voice, she was instructing the waitress. She explored the menu thoroughly, enquiring about various items. She suggested substitutions. She was having a whale of a time. She was behaving the way, in all her lonely hours, she had imagined ladies behave in high society. She was entirely oblivious of the anguish of her children as she laded it, which is the feminine of larded it, over the waitress and all her company. It was intensely pathetic, a little conspicuous, and I caught the eye of one of her children. He gave me a sardonic wink.

Their party broke up when ours did, and we mixed at the hat check counter. The young fellow who had winked at me drew me aside.

"Really," he said, "she is a wonderful old girl. We love her. But when she gets loose, like this, she's awful. She gets delusions of grandeur."

"Take her out oftener," I said. For I don't like sardonic winks.

"O Winter!—bar thine adamant doors:

The north is thine; there hast thou built thy dark

Deep-founded habitation.

Rides heavy; his storms are unchain'd, sheathed

In ribbed steel; I dare not lift mine eyes,

For he hath rear'd his sceptre o'er the world.

Call the Bailiff

Thanks for a free press. I was able to read about a wonderful piece of business being transacted by the city of Victoria. Seven houses upon which $54,000 has already been paid for removing and refurbishing; another $28,000 would be required to complete, making a total of $82,000 or an average of $11,700 per house.

These houses could not be sold to repay these costs. It would have been quicker and cheaper to have handed them to a wrecker.

The council is largely composed of businessmen and their businesses were conducted in this manner the bailiff would soon have employment. It is small wonder that Saanich voted against amalgamation.

Holiday for All

During the Christmas holidays there will be many men and women who will be unable to partake of the usual festivities owing to the fact that they have to work in either transportation, ticket office or some other service. These unfortunate people who have wives and children or husbands and children or near relatives will be working on Christmas day.

How would it be if there was a law in B.C. that all transports (local of course) were to cease operations at 12 or 2 o'clock on Christmas Day? Anyone wishing to visit families or friends could do so before this time and stay overnight and travel back the next day when transportation would be resumed as usual.

If people knew beforehand (months ahead) this could easily be arranged by either making sure their families or friends could accommodate them or maybe make reservations at an auto court, motel or hotel near where they wish to visit. This could also promote business in an otherwise dead season.

So many buses are running empty on this day and very few people travel that I feel sure the drivers would love to be home sharing all the joys of the day with their kids.

I realize that there are some services that are essential, but where it is possible I think everyone should vote for this Great Day to be free for everyone (at least part of the day).

NATO Stands Firm On Nuclear Defence

PARIS (AP)—NATO foreign ministers affirmed Thursday their "manifest will to use nuclear retaliatory forces to repel aggression."

The communiqué pledged the 15 NATO powers to work hard for a solution to the overall German question, lumping it together with other cold-war issues including European security and controlled disarmament.

"The NATO governments," the communiqué said, "will continue to seek just settlements of these problems, but regret that Western proposals on these questions have so far been ignored by the Soviet government."

New Bid to Oust Union Been After INCO Strike

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—An effort to overthrow leaders of the International Union of the Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) seems likely in time they came here.

Labor observers say it is doubtful the rival United Steelworkers of America (CLC) will lead a revolt but formation of a new union is considered a possibility.

A group of women, wives of workers in the 87-day International Nickel Company walk-out, began agitating last week with a mass meeting in Sudbury Arena.

Little has been heard from men so far. It's difficult to reach members of a long-term dissident faction among CO workers. But it's understood they are awaiting the end of the strike before taking action.

The Steelworkers, locked out of the mine-mill in a struggle with the company, are only a scenic day away from power in Northern Ontario.

Warning Talks Collapse

GENEVA (UPI)—The East and West gave up indefinitely yesterday in their drawn-out effort to organize a world-wide warning system against surprise attacks.

The deadlocked 10-nation conference on prevention of sneak attacks held the last in a series of fruitless meetings which began Nov. 10, and then suspended the talks without setting a date for re-convening.

Western delegation chief William C. Foster of the United States, said his government would work "as energetically as possible" to get the talks under way again.

Soviet first deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, head of the Eastern delegation, blamed the West for the conference's lack of progress so far.

Canada Willing

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said yesterday Canada is prepared to resume technical talks on the prevention of surprise attack "after a suitable pause to assess the problems before us."

The Canadian view, he said, was that technical discussions "are capable of laying a suitable foundation for political negotiations."

ANCIENT PLANT

Hops were a garden plant of the ancient Romans, who ate the young shoots as asparagus is eaten today.

British Columbia has reached the point where it needs overall control or direction of the whole electrical utility business, B.C. Power commissioner Dr. H. J. MacLeod told the Shrum royal commission yesterday.

Hearings followed a Wednesday complaint to the royal commission by power commission director of load development Charles Nash that British Columbia has no long-range power plan.

UP TO GOVERNMENT

But, Dr. MacLeod told the Shrum commission into B.C. Power Commission financing, the matter of integration and long-range planning "is a subject of high-level power policy which should be set by the government."

He added that it was his own opinion "the province is coming or has come to the point where there should be over-all control or direction of the whole electrical utility business in B.C."

FUTURE HOPES

He said the B.C. Power Commission "has filled a very necessary place. It is continuing to do so and I hope to see it fill a more effective place in the future."

Commission Reconvenes In January

The Shrum royal commission into B.C. Power Commission financing concluded its current sittings in Victoria yesterday and will reconvene here at the Empress Hotel Jan. 5.

Other Victoria hearings are scheduled Jan. 7, 8 and 9.

Former power commission general manager H. Lee Briggs and former commissioner H. H. Griffin are to appear then.

City to Have Boat Show

The city's first marine and boat show will be held April 16, 17 and 18 in the Victoria Curling Club.

Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen Club is sponsoring the show, which it hopes will become an annual event.

Inboard and outboard boats, motors, sailing craft, together with marine equipment of all kinds, accessories, and marine sporting goods will be featured.

of administration Garth Griffiths told the royal commission the future of the power commission depends on more profitable and populated areas to serve and lower cost sources of energy.

MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT

Questioned about the high cost of the Strathcona development on Upper Campbell Butte Lake, Dr. MacLeod said the matter had been discussed by commission officials and engineering consultants time after time and that "quite a number of reports were prepared."

"We proceeded in the manner we thought best and we leave it to the royal commission to look into what we have done," he said.

NO OBJECTION

Asked by Dr. Shrum if he agreed that the finances of the power commission should be put on a formal basis, Dr. MacLeod said, "If the government wants paper or negotiable securities, I have no objection to giving it to them as long as it doesn't cost us anything."

"I personally would not reach any formal agreement until the royal commission gives its stand," he said.

NO INTERFERENCE

Dr. MacLeod said since he had been commissioner, nearly five years, he had not run into "anything which I would call political interference."

"There are different ideas of what is considered political interference. In my opinion there has been none."

Asked by Dr. Shrum if there was any frustration, he said, "On the whole it has been a very interesting five years."

'Moon' Talks Back

Russian Satellite Dwarfed by Atlas

beacon will be operating on 107.97 and 107.94 megacycles.

Preliminary data indicated the new satellite is orbiting the earth once every 100 minutes.

It is expected to remain in orbit about 20 days — a relatively short life span, but its value is expected to be great.

"This successful launching constitutes a major step forward in space exploration and opens new avenues for the United States and all mankind in their efforts to explore the peaceful uses of outer space," the defence department said.

FIRE NO. 16

The Atlas, which the defence department said already has proved its operational capabilities—that of carrying a hydrogen warhead more than 6,000 miles—is the U.S.'s only tested intercontinental ballistic missile. The one fired into orbit was the 16th fired since June, 1957.

The entire vehicle of the Atlas, all of its immense bulk except booster rocket engines was put in orbit.

THREE FOR REDS

It was the fifth earth satellite put into orbit by the U.S. Russia has orbited three Sputniks. The U.S. has put four Jupiter missile Explorer satellites and a navy Vanguard satellite into orbit. Still aloft in addition to the Atlas are the Explorer 1, Explorer 2, Explorer 3, Explorer 4, Explorer 5, Explorer 6, Explorer 7, Explorer 8, Explorer 9, Explorer 10, Explorer 11, Explorer 12, Explorer 13, Explorer 14, Explorer 15, Explorer 16, Explorer 17, Explorer 18, Explorer 19, Explorer 20, Explorer 21, Explorer 22, Explorer 23, Explorer 24, Explorer 25, Explorer 26, Explorer 27, Explorer 28, Explorer 29, Explorer 30, Explorer 31, Explorer 32, Explorer 33, Explorer 34, Explorer 35, Explorer 36, Explorer 37, Explorer 38, Explorer 39, Explorer 40, Explorer 41, Explorer 42, Explorer 43, Explorer 44, Explorer 45, Explorer 46, Explorer 47, Explorer 48, Explorer 49, Explorer 50, Explorer 51, Explorer 52, Explorer 53, Explorer 54, Explorer 55, Explorer 56, Explorer 57, Explorer 58, Explorer 59, Explorer 60, Explorer 61, Explorer 62, Explorer 63, Explorer 64, Explorer 65, Explorer 66, Explorer 67, Explorer 68, Explorer 69, Explorer 70, Explorer 71, Explorer 72, Explorer 73, Explorer 74, Explorer 75, Explorer 76, Explorer 77, Explorer 78, Explorer 79, Explorer 80, Explorer 81, Explorer 82, Explorer 83, Explorer 84, Explorer 85, Explorer 86, Explorer 87, Explorer 88, Explorer 89, Explorer 90, Explorer 91, Explorer 92, Explorer 93, Explorer 94, Explorer 95, Explorer 96, Explorer 97, Explorer 98, Explorer 99, Explorer 100.

IV and Vanguard I, which may stay up 200 years. Sputnik III is the only Russian satellite still in orbit.

The Atlas blasted off, rising into the last rays of sunlight that glinted off the missile as it rose. Its smoke trail glowed brightly.

Two booster engines fell off after their fuel burned out. The sustainer engine remained with the missile as part of the satellite. Final weight was nearly 8,800 pounds.

CYCLE COMPLETE

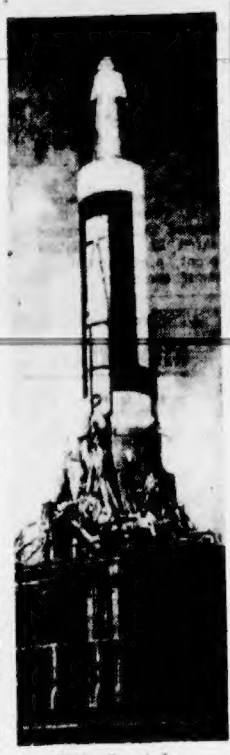

The successful launching of a satellite by the air force completed the satellite cycle for the armed forces. The army did it first, then the navy, and last night the air force.

The Atlas's three rocket engines total about 350,000 pounds of thrust.

EARLY VERSION

The satellite is an early version of an orbiting relay station.

The name of the satellite experiment, "Score," means "signal communications orbit relay experiment."

This Is Atlas

This is the type of Atlas rocket that surged into orbit last night from Cape Canaveral, Florida. The comparative size of a man to its 85-foot length and 10-foot girth may be seen from the tiny figure seated at base.—(AP Photofax).

Bulganin Tells All His 'Crimes'

Victorians Won't See Satellite

The Atlas satellite launched last night will not be seen by Victorians, or anyone in British Columbia.

However, it will be visible to the naked eye, U.S. officials said, roughly south of a line running from Washington, D.C., to San Francisco.

More definite times and places will be announced today.

Officials added that the huge satellite would not pass over Russian territory.

Two Buses In Length

The Atlas missile in orbit is about the length and girth of two city buses placed end to end.

Buses average about 10 tons. The missile weighs more than four tons. It is going 17,000 miles an hour.

could have been caused if the woman was struck by a car, he said.

Dr. Herberts said the injuries alone could have caused death, but the victim also suffered exposure in the severe weather of the weekend on which she was injured.

Police are puzzling over the only words heard from the badly-injured woman after she was admitted to hospital.

Dr. de Roos said when he asked her a number of times how she was hurt, she answered: "I was carrying a lamp."

He said he was not able to get any further explanation from her.

committee of the Soviet Communist party Thursday that as premier he virtually became the leader of the anti-party group.

He denounced three former top Communist leaders who were expelled of power in 1957 for their "anti-party" activities.

Bulganin described ex-premier Georgi Malenkov as "an intriguer, capable of any dirty trick and any abomination."

He said former foreign minister Vyacheslav Molotov was "a man, estranged from life and the people, who knew nothing of industry and agriculture."

Former first deputy premier Lazar Kaganovich, said Bulganin, was "a man adept at fine phrases who occupied himself with hindering work by his long and confused speeches."

Bulganin continued: "The stern and principled assessment of the criminal activities of the anti-party group and of my participation in it, revealed the harm of the group and to see the rottenness of the anti-party swamp in which I found myself."

"Today I honestly try to fulfill the duties with which I am entrusted by the central committee. Working in the council of the national economy, I see the genius-like character and the wisdom of the policy of our party and its central committee, of its practical work in leading the national economy of the country."

Reds Accuse West

Leaflets Pretext?

BERLIN (UPI)—The Communists Thursday published a charge that U.S. aircraft were dropping propaganda leaflets over East Germany on flights to isolated West Berlin.

The charge was seen as a possible pretext for interference with Western flights to Berlin through the three 20-mile-wide air corridors over the Soviet zone. The Communists have already challenged the right of U.S., British and French commercial airlines to fly to the city.

The new accusation against the Americans was contained in a letter published in the official East German Communist party newspaper, Neues Deutschland.

had been signed yet, he said, "No... no signing yet."

The Kapoor company, whose main office and sawmills are at Barnet, near Vancouver, has been trucking its daily island cut (100,000 feet worth $4,000) to Shawnigan Lake and then shipping by CNR to Cowichan Bay.

ON OPEN MARKET

A spokesman said, "We have been selling it on the open market... some goes to Vancouver, some to Victoria."

Another source said that BCFP will probably use another system "when they start up in the spring."

The logs will be trucked to both Nanaimo and Port Renfrew, he said, perhaps benefiting Victoria with more logs coming here to be made into lumber.

"There will doubtless be a disturbance in the Island economy as a result of this rerouting," he said.

Freight rates were mentioned as one of the reasons behind the Kapoor sell-out.

"The company just couldn't stand the increase," said another of the newly-laid-off men.

He said the CNR rates had jumped with the recent increase from $44.80 a carload to $52 for the 14-mile run to Cowichan Bay. The company had been shipping 10 to 15 carloads a day, he said.

Santa Wore Soccer Boots

GLAMORGAN, Wales (Reuters) — Alfred Bowen, an invalid former coal miner who has been unable to afford presents or a Christmas dinner for the last 14 years Tuesday won £75,000 ($210,000) tax free in a soccer pool.

"For 14 years I have not been able to buy my family a present, let alone a good Christmas dinner," he said.

Gerry James announces plans for winter

Versatile Winnipeg Blue Bomber Gerry James has disclosed his plans for the winter season. "No change," said Gerry. "I'm relying on 'Prestone' Brand Anti-Freeze, just as I did last year. I know I can depend on 'Prestone' Anti-Freeze to protect me from freeze-ups, rust, clogging and corrosion in my car's cooling system."

You can depend on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze, too. Its magnetic film coats every rubber and metal part of your car's cooling system—protects against the worst that winter can do! Insist on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze and you'll get it. Look for the Green Tag on your radiator that assures you of complete winter protection—"Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze protection. PMS-17

Worsley Blocked All Wings Offered

New York Ranger goaltender Lorne (Gump) Worsley takes Charlie Burns' rising drive on the chest as the Detroit Red Wings storm around the New York goal during last night's National Hockey League game in Detroit. Worsley was in the way all night, blocking 38 drives to post his first shut-out of the season as the Rangers beat Detroit for the first time in six games, 2-0. (AP Photofax.)

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Pete Turko must rate as the most optimistic human being since an unemployed sportswriter spent his last nickel to send a letter of proposal to Zsa Zsa Gabor. It just isn't possible for a fellow to eat enough waffles before bedtime to dream that Victoria could be a member of the Western Inter-provincial Football Union within three years. Or five, or 10.

Just the same, you have to give football enthusiast Turko credit for being an outstanding disciple of the "think big" school. It's just about as possible for Victoria Ventures Ltd. to get a National League baseball franchise or for Doug Fletcher to get into the National Hockey League with an all-star team from his commercial league as it will be for Turko and associates to get "a spot in the WIFU with the B.C. Lions."

Victoria's Herb Capozzi, however, isn't taken back at all by the fact that Winnipeg Blue Bombers had to have an income of about $375,000 this season to show a $25,000 profit. He doesn't even blink at the fact that B.C. Lions may show a deficit this season with an average attendance of about 20,000. The knowledge that a WIFU club has to do a $500,000 business each season to have a chance of breaking even doesn't even make him pause. It's of no import that the Lions in five seasons haven't yet caught up to the other clubs in the calibre of their Canadian talent although they are the richest club in Canada. Peter, in his role as general manager, is fully equipped with pencil and paper and he came up with the answers.

First is the sale of 3,000 memberships at $20 each. That's $60,000. Then you sell 200 "corporate" memberships for $100 each and you have $20,000 more. That's a start. The next thing is to sell 13,000 season's tickets at $28 each. That's another $364,000.

None of the above should prove difficult in a city which couldn't pressure $300,000 out of its citizens for the Community Chest, wouldn't support class "B" baseball and isn't supporting a good brand of professional hockey.

So now we have $444,000 and shouldn't lose more than $100,000 in our first season. We have 13,000 people with season's tickets and no place for them to sit. We haven't even got a press box large enough to take care of the club directors much less the corporate members.

Nothing tough about that, Peter says. He figures that the provincial government, which could probably use a big project about now, will pay two-thirds of the cost of a stadium which would seat 16,000. The other third, a matter of about $750,000? Nothing that a couple of "big" bingos wouldn't fix. Or perhaps Saanich, which likes to point to Memorial Arena as one reason against amalgamation, would go along with this project.

You see, there aren't any problems here that can't be overcome. We can raid the National Football League for Jim Brown and John Unitas, lure Red Blaik away from the West Point to do the coaching to give us a start at building a team. Canadian players? Well, Hamilton will probably help us out with Ron Howell and Gerry McDougall and if Normie Kwong, as was reported, is willing to play in Vancouver he can be counted on to be downright anxious to get to Victoria. We'll get Doug Brown back from Calgary to do our place-kicking and bring Reg Clarkson out of retirement.

A franchise? No problem at all once we have accomplished this. Besides, having Victoria in the league saves travelling expenses for the other clubs. There's a big factor right there. And look at the start we have. Inside of 24 hours we got 25 directors, a manager and were out looking for an office.

Don't misunderstand all of this. It really isn't meant to be facetious. There's nothing wrong with setting your aim high but shooting down Sputnik with a slingshot is going to take some doing. If, as has been suggested, a suggestion is in order why not lower our aim? We'll be satisfied with a well run intermediate club with seven directors and if in five or 10 years we win enough recognition to actually play off with the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, Mr. Turko can take his place alongside P. T. Barnum and Cash and Carry Pyle and Tex Rickard. In the meantime, let's beat those Fort William Redskins.

GUESSING DEPARTMENT: Edmonton, Winnipeg and Seattle in tonight's WHL games. Pat McMurty to move up in the heavyweight ranks by defeating Nino Valdes. Batting average to date: At bat 113, hits 75, percentage .664.

TURKS DELIGHTED

ISTANBUL (AP)—Turkey scored late in the second half Thursday and defeated Czechoslovakia 1-0 in an international soccer match.

Paul Brown Isn't Worried

Cleveland Browns, who face one of the finest defensive units in the National Football League Sunday, have a good mental attitude but may need more than that to beat the New York Giants.

Giants edged the Browns, who boast the league's leading ground-gainer in rookie full-back Jimmy Brown, 13-10, last week to force a playoff for the eastern conference title.

Winner of Sunday's clash will meet the western conference champion Baltimore Colts Dec. 28 for the National Football League title.

Cleveland coach Paul Brown, who has been working on his club's offense, isn't worried about his team's morale.

"That's one thing I'm not worried about," he said. "Sure the fellows felt badly about losing, but they know they played a darn fine football game."

Meanwhile, Giant coach Jim Lee Howell predicted a wide-open, gambling type of game Sunday.

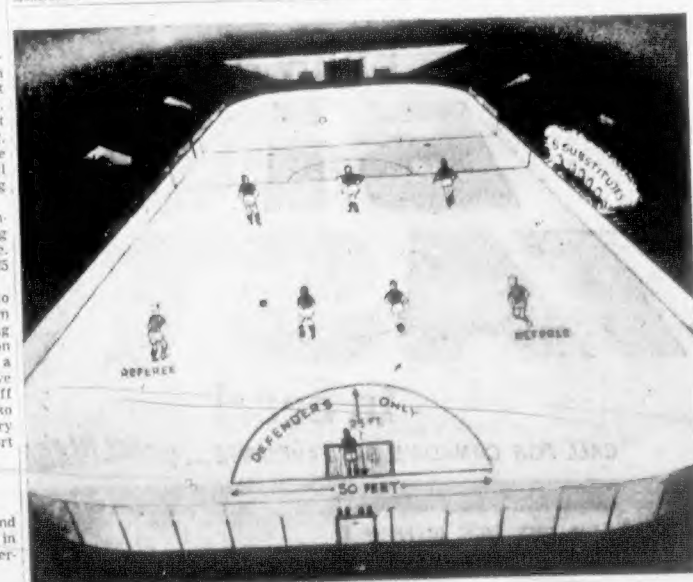

"I expect Paul Brown to take a lot of chances," he said. "So will we. This is it. You've got to go for broke. In a game as important as this one, you can't sit back and wait for the breaks. You've got to make your own."

Howell said the Giants would start Don Heinrich at quarterback again with veteran Charlie Connerly probably taking over in the second or third quarter.

Long-range weather forecast is "fair and cold."

Winter Soccer Hits Toronto

Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, which has hosted hockey, opera, the ballet, the circus and political rallies, will be the scene of an indoor soccer game Dec. 29. Two Toronto pro teams will play on a temporary concrete floor, under special rules and with a ball not inflated as much as for outdoor soccer. (CPC.)

Rangers Blank Detroit Canadiens Crush Leafs

Little Lorne Worsley, who has been accused in the past of being a "hot-and-cold" performer, was at his best last night as the New York Rangers posted their first victory of the season over Detroit, blanking the Red Wings, 2-0.

Last night's contest, game, the league-leading Montreal Canadiens once again toyed with the Toronto Maple Leafs en route to 4-1 victory.

Worsley, performing in brilliant fashion, blocked 38 shots in chalking up his first shutout of the season.

The stocky, crew-cut net-minder beat Detroit forwards six times on breakaways as the Rangers finally beat the Red Wings after five straight losses.

Twice within seconds Red Kelly and Alex Delvecchio broke in on Worsley in the second period only to have the New York netminder outguess their faking tactics and slide out to steal the puck without a shot being fired.

Andy Hebertson, former Victoria Cougar, scored both Ranger goals, his 11th and 12th of the season.

He rifled home Harry Howell's rebound in the first period and then added the insurance goal late in the third period, beating Terry Sawchuk from close in. His second goal marked the first time in six games this season that the Rangers have been able to score more than one goal against Sawchuk, who had allowed them only four goals in the first five games.

NOW FOURTH
 The victory, before 9,112 fans in Detroit's Olympia Stadium, boosted Rangers into sole possession of fourth place.

At Montreal, before a crowd of 13,493, Canadiens fired three unanswered goals in the first period, skating through the Toronto defence almost at will.

Leafs, who have been able to salvage only a tie in five games against the Canadiens, were never in contention.

PRETTY GOAL
 Henri Richard, who faked Johnny Bower flat on his face before pushing the puck into the empty net for the prettiest goal of the night, Bob Turner and Claude Provost scored for Montreal in the first period.

After a lull and scoreless first period, Bert Olmstead, a former Canadian, ruined Jacques Plante's shutout bid with a 35-footer.

Dickie Moore restored Montreal's three-goal bulge with five minutes remaining. The fans, who had been lulled into a state of apathy by the loose play, responded with polite cheers.

ACTIVE 16 YEARS
 The little Louisville, Ky., slugger, who holds all manner of records earned in his 16 active years with the Dodgers, joins Chuck Dressen, Greg Mulheavy and Rube Walker in the coaching corps.

While Reese goes off the active roster, it won't be surprising to see him back in action next season if an injury or a problem develops at shortstop.

Pee Wee starred in seven world series for the Dodgers, dating back to 1941, and played in eight all-star games, stretching over a period from 1942 to 1953, and he was selected for the 1954 squad.

He replaced another famous old Brooklyn Bum, Leo Durocher, as shortstop and neither time nor talent could force him out of the job until injuries sidelined him in 1957.

He appeared in 69 games here last season, batting .224.

But the cold figure tells little. Pee Wee himself joked about his advancing years, "I'm 21 again. But very presence in the line invariably provided a most boost for the Dodgers."

LOS ANGELES (AP)— Capt. Harold (Pee Wee) Reese was named Thursday to the coaching staff of Los Angeles Dodgers and so apparently one of the all-time brilliant playing careers of major league baseball is at an end.

Vice-President E. J. (Buz) Bava announced the shift from the active list of the 37-year-old veteran, and added: "We are proud of the wonderful record of Pee Wee Reese. He could have remained on the active roster of another major league club. But the Dodgers, in rebuilding their team, must make room for another youngster. That's baseball. We are happy, indeed, that Reese has Hospital authorities said Thursday night Wills, 66, admitted Dec. 8 and remain for several weeks. His condition was life threatening.

Wills, who had more than 100 fights in a 21-year career that began in 1911 in his hometown of New Orleans, is one of the big heavyweights with the exception of Jack Dempsey.

Edinburgh Hockey Team Leaves British League

EDINBURGH (CP)—Edinburgh Royals, successful on the ice but not at the gate, are dropping out of the British National Hockey League, it was announced Thursday. The Scottish club made its league debut this season.

Royals' decision means the league will be reduced to four teams—Paisley Pirates, Wembley Lions, Brighton Tigers and Nottingham Panthers. The Edinburgh club has won 12 games and tied three in 23 starts.

But Royals' 4,000-seat Murrayfield rink has rarely been more than one-quarter full, and the club has consistently operated at a loss.

Strong Early Stand By England's Eleven

LAUNCESTON, Australia (Reuters)—An opening stand-off by Willie Watson and Arthur Milton, followed by the batting of Peter May and Colin Cowdrey, took England to 274 for four on the opening day of a cricket match against an Australian team Thursday.

Watson and Milton gave the tourists a good start after they had been sent in to bat May, 42 not out, and Cowdrey, 56 not out, hurried the solid batting of the wicket pair was a hearter sign with England suffering from opening problems in tests. Milton's 85, his second highest score of the tour, made in three hours, 55 minutes and included four boundaries. Watson was at the bat two hours, 13 minutes, his 43 and hit six fours.

England had 172 on board with two wickets down but Milton and Ted Dexter fell while six runs were being added. Then May and Cowdrey came together about the bowling, scoring first 50 of their partners in 40 minutes.

Maloney Decision Today

VANCOUVER (CP) — General manager Coley Hall of Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League said Thursday he expects to make a statement today on the future of centre Phil Maloney, around whom a dispute between Canucks and Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League has developed.

A Vancouver newspaper says Maloney will go to the Hawks after Christmas in return for cash and an unnamed player, but Hall would make no comment on the newspaper report.

Hall said he would be talking by telephone with Chicago team officials. Maloney, a high-scoring Canuck forward, became the centre of a three-way mixup involving the Hawks, Canucks and New York Rangers when the 31-year-old centre, he will go.

Canucks officials threatened to keep Maloney in the NHL.

Meanwhile, Maloney sat on the sidelines with a shoulder separation suffered several weeks ago. He has been working out in recent days and is expected to be ready to play again in about 10 days.

Hall said earlier that Maloney will have the final say on whether he goes to Chicago but he said Thursday "if arrangements suit" the 31-year-old centre, he will go.

Grey Cup Trip Ends In Court

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 27-year-old Calgary football fan who came to Vancouver for the Grey Cup game 2 1/2 weeks ago can start for home now.

Douglas Aitkens was given a suspended sentence Wednesday for stealing a car. He had intended to drive to Calgary after spending $180 in post-game revelry, but had been in custody since arrested in an RCMP roadblock at Hope, B.C.

"I read an article about what happens to people over football, but this is the limit," said Magistrate Oscar Orr. He felt Aitkens should "get something more substantial" in the way of sentence but took into consideration lack of a previous record and Aitkens' wife and two children at Calgary.

The magistrate ordered Aitkens to post a $500 bond to keep the peace for one year and added: "you had better give up football."

Italian Team Happy With Tennis Draw

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Tons of pressure rest today on Alex Olmedo, forced to play the United States' opening singles match against Italy's seasoned champion Nicola Pietrangeli in the Davis Cup interzone tennis final.

If the delighted, confident Italians had ordered the draw to their specifications it could not have suited them better. Olmedo, the young Peruvian from the University of Southern California, goes against the cagey, often brilliant, Pietrangeli while Ham Richardson of Arlington, Va., top-ranked U.S. player, faces Armando Siroia in the second match. Siroia had said he hoped for the first shot at Richardson.

The opening match may tell the tale. Olmedo is 22, a late, and to some, a surprising selection for the first Davis Cup match of his career; Pietrangeli is 26, a five-year veteran of Davis Cup competition in which he has played 65 matches and lost only 10.

Until a couple of days ago it appeared certain Olmedo would play only the doubles, with Richardson, and that the second singles position would go to Barry MacKay, who carried Australia's Mal Anderson to five sets and beat Ashley Cooper in last year's challenge round.

But after wrestling with the issue for several days, non-playing captain Perry Jones finally picked Olmedo on his record against MacKay over the last year and in test matches this week.

After Jack Davies, president of the Canadian association, gave his resume of the team's record at the games.

Following Davies' report, Yost said, Osborne made a passing remark that he thought "maybe some consideration should be given" to suspending athletes whose conduct was detrimental to sports and to Canada.

"Osborne did not elaborate, nor did he mention any names," Yost said. "There was no discussion on the matter; no recommendation made; and it never even got into the minutes of the meeting."

AAU 'Suspension' Only Suggestion

WINNIPEG (CP) — Ken Yost of Winnipeg, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, said Thursday only an informal suggestion—not a recommendation—was made at an AAU meeting in Vancouver to suspend an athlete because of his deportment on a British Empire Games trip to Britain.

He was commenting in an interview on reports that a date between runner Joe Mullins of Glace Bay, N.S., and an air force girl in London had prompted a recommendation that the athlete be kept off Canadian track and field teams for a few years.

Bob Osborne of Vancouver, Canadian BEG team manager, was quoted as saying after the Vancouver meeting Dec. 3 that he had made such a recommendation.

The AAU secretary said the only reference made to the matter of suspensions came

Doing Job You Instructed Us to Do'

By W. A. C. BENNETT
Premier of British Columbia

The publisher of The Daily Colonist has offered me space in this newspaper in which to clear the air in current controversies.

I am very appreciative of this generous offer and on behalf of the people of British Columbia I gladly accept and thank the Colonist for this display of interest in the affairs of our province.

Your Social Credit Government was re-elected in 1952—large majority of the people of British Columbia to carry out the wishes of that large majority. I feel that your government has been a faithful servant of the people, carrying on the business of this province in an honest and efficient manner.

Our policy is YOUR policy. We are only doing the job which YOU instructed us to do when you elected us. We have been enjoying good times in British Columbia despite tight money and the high interest policy of our federal government. We have been able to take advantage of this period to accomplish big things for our province. We have paid our way, but more than that, we have been able to save money, reduce our heavy debt with its attendant load of interest charges, and pave the way for a prosperous future.

Our way for a prosperous future will continue after it has passed away in other parts of Canada.

Ours is a democratic and free-enterprise government. We are, of course, always under attack by the communists and socialists whose theories are foreign to the Canadian way of life.

More recently we have been under attack by a certain section of the press, the cause of which we feel is due to the fact they don't understand the government's policies and long-range planning.

We have been under attack, also, by frustrated old-line political parties who are unable to elect even their political leaders to seats in our legislature.

In the face of these facts, I welcome this opportunity to place before the people of British Columbia an explanation of the actions of their government and proof that during our tenure of office British Columbia and its people have prospered and prospered as never before.

The financial affairs of the Government with its $300,000,000 budget, its Toll Bridge Authority, its Power Commission and other items make up the biggest single business operation in the province.

The people of British Columbia are the shareholders in this business.

Premier Sees No Foundation For Charges

By W. A. C. BENNETT

In an unprecedented campaign by a former employee of the B.C. Power Commission, a number of statements have been given great prominence in the press of this province.

These charges have been without foundation, and from recent statements, they have seemed to be entirely old-line party politics.

It was stated:

1. That $26,000,000 was being taken from the net debt of the province and transferred to another fund.

This is completely false. Already one Vancouver newspaper has apologized for stating this.

LOADED ON FUNDS?

2. That the $26,000,000 of Power Commission bonds, which would be issued at lower than current interest rates, would be loaded on teachers' pension funds and workmen's compensation funds.

This is completely false. These bonds will go into the provincial government's own sinking funds.

COST FALSE

3. That the Social Credit Party's booklet "Our Greatest Six Years" issued last August cost $1 per booklet.

This is completely false. The printing costs only amounted to 6½ cents per copy as Evergreen Press of Vancouver has advised the Premier by telegram.

ADDED COSTS?

4. That the issuing of bonds by the British Columbia Power Commission for government advances (exactly the same way as it is handled in Ontario) would cost the Commission an additional $215,000 per year.

This is completely false.

INTEREST CHARGES

The Power Commission since the days of Premier John Hart has paid the interest and debt repayment charges on these advances.

Now: What's all the mystery about B.C. Power Commission financing?

NO MYSTERY

The answer: No mystery at all.

Although subjected recently to misinformed attacks, Power Commission financing is simple and straightforward, in accordance with long-established business principles. Perhaps those principles can best be reviewed on a question-and-answer basis.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Q.—How does the Commission finance its operations?

A.—When it was set up in 1915, the Commission first borrowed directly from the government through cash advances. Later it issued its own debentures through the Minister of Finance. These debentures are guaranteed by the government.

CASH ADVANCES

Q.—How much cash did the provincial government advance?

A.—Just over $32,000,000 through six advances from 1915 through 1952.

Q.—How has the Commission done the rest of its financing?

A.—By direct borrowing, with a guarantee from the government.

DEBT LISTED

Q.—How much did the Commission owe when this government took office in 1952?

A.—On cash advances, $29,690,228; on other borrowings, $15,733,398.

Q.—How much does the Commission owe the government now?

A.—As of March 31 this year, $26,306,072.

CASH SOURCE

Q.—Where did the government get the cash to advance to the Commission?

A.—By direct borrowings, due in 1952, 1960, 1967, 1968, 1970 and 1977.

Q.—When are these cash advances repayable to the government?

A.—Over a 40-year period from the date of the original advances in 1915 through 1948; over a 25-year period from the date of the 1952 advance.

WHAT ASKED?

Q.—What has the government asked the Commission to do about these advances?

A.—To give securities, at a rate involving a yearly cash amount not greater than the Commission is now paying, for the $26,000,000 outstanding.

WHY SOUGHT?

Q.—Why does the government ask this?

A.—Because the government needs something to show for its loans, or advances, part of which has come due to the Commission against borrowings made on behalf of the Commission. This, by the way, is the procedure already followed by the Ontario government with the Ontario Hydro Commission.

NET DEBT:

Q.—Are cash advances to the Commission shown in the net debt of the province?

A.—No; they never have been. And incidentally, this, too, is the procedure followed by the Ontario government.

BROKERAGE

Q.—About brokerage—the sum bond houses charge for handling Power Commission bonds? Why is this charged when the government trust accounts buy these bonds?

A.—Because the government is required to invest its trust funds in recognized securities, of which Power Commission bonds are typical. When the government buys for this purpose, it buys on the open market to get the best deal it can. And the rate at which the Power Commission bonds are sold through bond houses is fixed for the whole issue after the best possible rate has been obtained.

SUMMING UP

Summing up, there is no mystery whatever to the handling of B.C. Power Commission financing.

It's a matter of public record, which anyone can inspect. And our government firmly believes that a fair examination of that record will satisfy any taxpayer that he is getting the best possible service in public power at the lowest possible cost.

Major growth of the British Columbia Power Commission did not begin until the Social Credit government took office in 1952.

In these past six years the commission has emerged as one of the important market-makers and producers of electricity in Western Canada. Plans are also drawn up for future expansion which will see the commission handling Columbia River power and taking part in the development of Peace River power if it so decides.

Here is a review of the growth of the Commission in this past six years:

One of World's Great Power Sources

Studies are now being made of the feasibility of producing power from the canyon of the Peace River, shown above. Engineers believe it can produce 4,500,000 horsepower. It is the hope of the Social Credit government that development of the Columbia River power can also be undertaken at the same time, as this province's need for power is increasing rapidly.

All Sections of B.C. To Share Electricity

By W. A. C. BENNETT

For the first time in the history of British Columbia its invaluable hydro resources are being developed under a long-range program best suited for the growth and development of the entire province.

ALL TO SHARE

No longer will hydro electricity be the exclusive right of the large centres.

Under the new planning introduced by your Social Credit government every section of British Columbia will share in the benefits of electricity.

W. A. C. BENNETT

It won't be just Vancouver; it won't be just Victoria.

ISLAND, TOO

It will be Dawson Creek, Prince George, the Cariboo, the Kootenays, and, of course, on an equitable basis the Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island.

For some reason a tremendous controversy has arisen over the development of the hydro resources. There has even been a determined effort on the part of some politicians to block the development of what might become our greatest resource.

TAKE TIME

It is difficult for me to believe that anyone with a fair mind would not take a short time to analyze our power potential and its ultimate uses.

First, British Columbia is particularly blessed with a huge hydro potential that is today estimated at more than 25,000,000 horsepower.

Second, this power is located in four different areas:

1. Northern B.C., including the Peace River, the Stikine River and the Yukon-Teslin-Taku system.
2. On the Fraser River.
3. Adjacent to the Lower Mainland and on Vancouver Island areas.
4. On the Columbia River in the Kootenays.

RELATE TO MARKETS

Third, the proper way to develop these great resources is to relate each one to markets and each one to economics.

There is no other way of proceeding. Developed power will make our province great, but to develop it we have to have tremendous sums of money, and it has to be able to pay its way.

SPECIFIC CASES

Now I would like to return to specific cases. So far we have not been able to prove the far northern hydro resources of the Taku because of the international problems. Undoubtedly these resources will eventually attract industry to them.

The second power potential, the Columbia River, today seems closer to development than ever before, and we hope that a project there can be completed as soon as possible.

One of the main difficulties with the Columbia in the past 20 years or so has been the fact that neither the Americans nor Ottawa could get together on downstream benefits.

Since we in British Columbia announced that we were going ahead on the Peace River there seems to have been a softening in the attitude of those in the United States who had been bargaining with Canada.

HOPE THERE IS

We sincerely hope there is, because the Kootenays, the Okanagan, Vancouver and all of British Columbia will benefit greatly from this huge project. The only thing we have to watch, however, is that the astute American bargainers do not take advantage of us, and that we don't give away this resource because it has become a political football.

NO SOLUTION?

I would ask anyone interested to make a brief study of the interminable hearings before the International Joint Commission which has been handling the Columbia project. There has never been a proper solution presented.

Unless we can prove to these Americans that we have enough power so that we won't be dependent on them they will treat us just as they did originally in our natural gas export.

States rejected our gas on a vague and meaningless excuse.

Then, just because they knew we had to have the American market if we were to build an economic pipeline to serve ourselves they tried to force us into a distinctly unfavorable deal over which we had no control.

GAS COMPARABLE

The natural gas situation is comparable in many ways to this Columbia River question. Both were outside the jurisdiction of the provincial government, both had to have the sanction of the federal government.

And in both, the interests of British Columbia were not given a thought by Ottawa or by the Americans.

LOOK FORWARD

We say again, that we look forward to the development of the Columbia, which will be done by the British Columbia Power Commission.

We hope this project will go ahead at the same time as the development of the Peace River by private interests in which the power commission can share, if it so desires.

The third power potential, and one of the largest in the province, is along the Peace River system. Here it has been shown that power can be developed economically, can be provided at low rates for the northern interior, and can be transported to the Lower Mainland area competitively.

Development of the Peace River system would be another step in the development of the north.

GREAT GROWTH

Just as the natural gas pipeline spurred a prosperity the like of which has never before been seen in the north country, the use of the Peace power would bring about the greatest growth in the province's history.

The fourth power resource is the Fraser River, but as there has yet been no successful method for handling the salmon question, use of this system seems to be many years away.

NOW DEVELOPED

The fifth resource generally in the southern interior and Lower Mainland and Vancouver Island area has been almost completely developed.

To anyone who might say that there is not enough room in British Columbia for the construction of these two mighty projects I would say they have no knowledge of the tremendous demand for power in the world today, nor the prosperity that follows power.

The Peace will make us great, but the Peace and Columbia combined will usher in a new era.

'Progress, Improvement'

Balance Sheet On Record

By W. A. C. BENNETT

When a company issues its annual report, its shareholders turn first to the balance sheet—its statement of assets and liabilities. And the key figure they look for is the amount by which the assets exceed the liabilities—this tells the story of a company's business health.

The "company" in which all of you are shareholders, the Government of British Columbia, has been in business now for 100 years. And during the first 94 years of its life, it made little progress—too little.

The balance sheet showed that assets exceeded liabilities by only $134,400,000.

HUGE INCREASE

But in 1958, after six years of Social Credit government, the balance sheet showed an excess of assets over liabilities of $432,243,000—an increase of $298,000,000!

And this balance sheet doesn't show the guaranteed investments (contingent liabilities) of the B.C. Power Commission, the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the Toll Bridge Authority. In the same way that they do not count as net debt, they don't count as assets—even though they would add millions to the bright side of the ledger.

BUSINESS HEALTH

Our balance sheet is on record for all to see. We think you will agree that it spells out a story of progress and improvement, of good business health.

In brief:

In 1952, after 94 years of other administrations, B.C.'s fixed assets—highways, bridges, ferries and public buildings—had a total value of $200,460,000.

In 1958, after six years of Social Credit government, the value of these assets is over $400,000,000.

The conclusion: As shareholders in our province, you own twice as much now in real property improvements as you did in 1952.

Prior to 1952 provincial governments borrowed money for the capital account to build highways, bridges and ferries. For University of British Columbia buildings, for court houses and institutional government buildings.

Since taking office in 1952, your Social Credit government has not only carried out all these public works on a pay-as-you-go basis, but has paid off just about all the money borrowed by previous governments.

THREE METHODS

This immense task has been accomplished in three ways:

1. No borrowings;
2. Repayment of bonds on maturity dates;
3. Increase in the sinking funds to meet the balance of outstanding bonds, which will be completed by March 31, 1960.

In short, by 1960, you as a taxpayer, and your children after you will not owe a cent for this, the greatest program ever undertaken in our history.

From the moment the Social Credit government took office on Aug. 1, 1952, all our highways, ordinary bridges and ferries have been built on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The greatest highway-building program, not just in British Columbia's history, but per capita in the entire history of the western world, has been accomplished without any borrowing at all.

In fact, the Social Credit government has moved more rock and material, and spent more on highways, in the past six years—and paid for every cent of it—than all previous B.C. governments did in the first 94 years of our history.

There are facts—facts about a record which your government believes every one of our citizens can point to proudly.

Mikoyan Welcome In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States promptly agreed yesterday to a Soviet request for Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, a close associate of Nikita Khrushchev, to visit Washington early next month.

A state department spokesman said that Mikoyan was invited in a "friendly" gesture. He would receive him. The Associated Press learned Wednesday night that Mikoyan had proposed a visit to Washington to see Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Menzies and that the request for the visit was made by Mikoyan's personal secretary, a high-level Soviet American policy man.

Missing Nurse Case

Masquerade Charged

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—A warrant was issued Thursday for the arrest of a man accused of helping a doctor mother stage a courthouse masquerade to get her son's marriage annulled.

Ralph Winterstein, 26, was charged with a record of convictions for numerous minor crimes.

The district attorney's office said it had evidence that Winterstein was paid $50 by Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan last August to pose in court as her son Frank.

Authorities say the 51-year-old mother then posed as her own daughter-in-law, Olga Kopyk, to get her son's marriage annulled.

Olga Duncan has since vanished.

The warrant for Winterstein's arrest accuses him of perjury and fraudulent impersonation. The elder Mrs. Duncan, currently in custody, is charged with forgery, falsifying legal documents and aiding and abetting a person to commit perjury.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Diacus Club, made up of blind business and professional men, has presented $1,702 to the Vancouver Association for Retarded Children. Erling Bjarnson, president of the retarded children's group, told Diacus Club members "your example makes us very humble."

Relief Handouts 'Demoralizing'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Alderman Tom Alsbury, Vancouver's mayor-elect, warned Thursday night that the aid of the city's relief handouts to the unemployed in 1938 should not be repeated.

Speaking to a service club here, Mr. Alsbury said an employment has been the central stage with more than 10,000 persons reported jobless in British Columbia's lower mainland.

Wall Street Establishes New Record

NEW YORK (UPI)—America Telephone & Telegraph led the stock market in a new record high on active trading.

Telephone, most widely held stock listed, soared 21 points Wednesday when directors proposed a three-for-one split.

Thursday it ran up to a new high since 1930 at 277 1/2, up 4 1/2 and then slipped slightly from the high.

This move by the leading utility focused attention in the market place on other issues which seemed to be split candidates. This embraced the high priced stocks such as International Business Machines which made a new high at 501 1/2, IBM at 505 1/2, and General Electric at 505 1/2.

Walmart Stores rose 3 1/2 to 100 1/2, and Eastman Kodak 1 1/2 to 100 1/2.

Steel shares displayed enough strength to push back up to a profit.

Railroad issues met better demand.

Campbell R.L. Gains

TORONTO (CP)—Profit taking for the second session in a row knocked industrials down.

Industrials were about more than one-half in morning trading from opening. The loss was closing heavy on the West Coast, where a big loss in the early session.

Great West Saddlery Co. gained 1/2 at 10 1/2, and Smith's Co. added 1/2 at 62 1/2, a 1958 high for the stock.

In golds Campbell Red Lake gained 1/2 at 10 1/2, and Dome added 1/2 at 17 1/2. Kerr-Addison, however, dipped 1/2 at 10 1/2.

Base metals were mixed with Hudson Bay at 56 1/2, and Noranda at 51 1/2, each ahead 1/2.

Western oils recovered from the close as Home Petroleum at 18 1/2, and Pacific Petroleum at 17 1/2, and Calgary and Edmonton down 1/2 at 20 1/2, kept the session off.

Papers Advance

MONTREAL (CP)—Prices were mixed in moderately active trading.

In the pipelines Interprovincial lost 1/2 at 4 1/2. Trans Canada was up 1/2 at 28 1/2, and Plains Petroleum advanced 1/2 at 10 1/2. The utility was at 10 1/2, and the power company at 10 1/2.

Base metals were mixed. At 10 1/2, Hudson Bay advanced 1/2 at 56 1/2.

Chinese Driven Too Hard, Too Fast

Reds Admit Trouble

TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China admitted Thursday that serious problems and doubts had developed over the "people's communes" system which failed to hold full or complete promises into agricultural output.

The powerful central government admitted that the system of communes, which was introduced in 1958, had caused serious problems in the countryside. The government said it was studying the situation and would take steps to correct it.

Communist leaders were criticized for having driven the peasants too hard, too fast. The government said it was studying the situation and would take steps to correct it.

The government said it was studying the situation and would take steps to correct it.

There has been speculation that the government planned to limit the communes to a certain number of years, but the government said it was studying the situation and would take steps to correct it.

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1958

SECOND NEWS SECTION

Nurses Keep Cool In Residence Fire

Girl's Fist Smashes Extinguisher Cabinet

At least 100 student nurses at Royal Jubilee Hospital were evacuated "without panic" about 6 p.m. yesterday when fire broke in Christmas decorations at the residence.

Baby On Mend

A 1½-year-old Victoria girl who drank some instant yesterday was reported in satisfactory condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital last night.

Linda Auer, the girl, was with relatives at her grandmother's home 742 Bay when she drank the instant. Her mother, Mrs. L. Auer, said she was at home at the time. Mrs. Auer said she was at home at the time. Mrs. Auer said she was at home at the time. Mrs. Auer said she was at home at the time.

Students May Help

Crippled Boy Needs Teacher

NANAIMO—Nanaimo future teachers' club may be approached by Nanaimo school board to see if any of the young students who are going into teacher training would volunteer to give two or three hours instruction a week to a youngster crippled with muscular dystrophy.

Precautions Urged

More Scarlet Fever Say Health Officers

Scarlet fever is on the increase in Greater Victoria, health officers said yesterday.

Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria-Esquimalt health officer, said about 20 cases had been reported in the past month.

Dr. A. N. (Bertie) Mahaffy, health officer, said 15 cases were reported in his district last month and nine so far this month.

Seen in Passing

Bernice McNeil eating a hamburger. (A newspaper of two months ago) Bob, in the army. Her mother, Mrs. Margaret O'Brien, lives in Victoria. Bernice's hobbies are sewing and knitting. Jack Woolcock doing some stag night shopping. Ray Boffers modeling a red dress for a customer. Bob Spavin leaving the federal building. Tom Windwood packing a toy shotgun under his arm. Dunc Davidson installing Jack Wedell as president of the Victoria Life Underwriters' Association. Terry French shopping for a dress. Art Knowles saving the customer is always right.

768 Pints Blood Given

The Red Cross wound up its three-day blood drive 232 pints short of its 1,000-pint goal but the agency was not disappointed with the 768 pints it received.

Executioner Sought For 100 Chickens

NANAIMO—A unusual offer came into the Salvation Army for the Christmas cheer fund yesterday. Capt. Charles Smith was told he could have 100 chickens for Christmas hampers if he could find someone to kill the birds. He is still looking for a volunteer for the job last night.

Also Shortest Day

Winter Begins Monday

Winter officially begins at 12:40 a.m. Monday. Dec. 22 also is the shortest day of the year. With luck daylight will last something over eight hours.

"At the very instant winter begins—officially that is—days begin to grow longer," said a spokesman for the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory in Saanich.

The winter solstice takes place when the sun touches its lowest point in the southern hemisphere, 23½ degrees south of the equator.

Navy Treats 4,000 Kiddies

A young, golden blond cocker spaniel just as excited as the close to 1,000 human kids present—nearly stole the show yesterday in his unscheduled appearance at the Navy's Christmas party in the Arena.

Nobody could eclipse old Santa, of course, but the blond dog did his best to add to the top-notch fun provided by the sea dogs.

The spaniel, which kept popping up here there and everywhere during the afternoon party, was the big post-prime of all when the physical jokers put their sick and zany tumbling act.

And how the hundreds of children laughed and squealed as the happy little dog slipped and skittered after the shipyard and clothing sea-going tumblers.

The shipyard's sailors, members of the 1958 personnel and recreation committee, staffed the event, the 1958 Christmas party, and the 1958 Christmas party.

Balance of the show maintained the same high calibre even without the spaniel.

SEVEN DRIES. Appearing on the same night, all the 1958 and 1959 Christmas party, and the 1958 Christmas party.

CPO JACK WALDRON. In the Snow job, after the 1958 Christmas party, and the 1958 Christmas party.

REPEATED LAUGHS. Bringing repeated laughs from the hundreds of children and adults, the 1958 Christmas party, and the 1958 Christmas party.

Made 'Life Master'. Veteran Victoria bridge player, C. L. Davidson, was named a life master of the Victoria Bridge Club.

HAPPY LOG. Another happy log on the naval Yule fire of laughs was Limpid Lloyd the Unhappy Clown (L.S. Lloyd Henderson).

Spaniel Steals Show

who finally succeeded in stealing the show by showing off his tricks to the kids.

Then the lights were lowered and the big moment arrived for the 1958 young stars. A spotlight picked out Santa Claus, once again.

The old gentleman's tumbling and the wails and roof of the arena shook too, as the children cheered and clapped.

Santa began the distribution of the nearly 4,000 presents and the big show was finished by the dozens of sailor helpers.

NOT ALL CHILDREN. Not all those attending were children and parents. There was, for instance, Maj. Frank V. Longstaff, a man with a 40-year association with the navy whose book, "A History of the Navy," was recently published.

The major was particularly struck with the tumbling. "It was excellent," he said.

The tumblers also caught the eye of Rear Admiral H. S. Brown, who said they were "very good and very like the British boys." He said the whole show was "jolly good."

20,000 City Students Poised for Freedom

With fall term examinations behind them and Christmas festivities at hand, 20,000 Greater Victoria students are polishing off the last school hours of 1958, today.

Ahead are 16 days of winter vacation before 1958 classes resume, Jan. 5.

Phony Collector Busy In Name of Aged

Police are investigating complaints of unauthorized collectors made in the name of the Aged Women's Home.

This was disclosed yesterday by Mrs. H. Warren, president of the board of the Aged Women's Home, now called Rose Manor.

Mrs. Warren said she has received calls from people who were asked for contributions, but she said there is no authorized collection now being made on behalf of the home.

Accountancy Degree Won by City Quartet

Final examinations of the B.C. Institute of Chartered Accountants were successfully completed recently by Victoria candidates A. K. McIsaac, B. F. Tolson, H. A. Fraser and G. R. C. Shipley.

Intermediate examinations were passed by Victoria candidates A. G. Cockell, C. G. Creighton, J. R. Gordon, R. E. Jackman, P. A. Martinson, W. C. Raper and A. S. Walls.

Warp Their Psyches!

Frustration
Helps Kids
To Grow Up

out and let me shave!"

That, some say, is bad. You shouldn't threaten your sweet little daughter that way. She might get a warped psyche.

But cheer up, harassed Dad. Somebody's on your side.

Dr. Herman Harvey, a psychology professor at the University of Southern California, says it's perfectly okay.

In fact, the thing to do for you to see that it's the kids who are frustrated, not you.

Frustrations are what make the little monsters grow up, says Dr. Harvey. They learned by climbing obstacles, not being lifted over them.

Harvey has experimented with animals. He says animals faced with gradually increasing vexations, carefully controlled, have appeared to build up a maturity.

Parents should chuck the idea, Harvey says, that life should be a bed of roses for their children.

Little Dickey needs problems of mite-like size. Then when new big Richard will know how to deal with stumbling blocks the size of mountains.

Not only that, Dickey will learn as a boy that solving problems can be fun.

Which leads to one of Harvey's main points. Frustration has probably accounted for every major creative achievement since the world began, he says.

People have wanted something they couldn't get it on they have sat down and figured out a way to create it. But they learned how as kids.

Stores Fear
Post-Holiday
Ad Blackout

NEW YORK (AP)—When the Christmas season is over, the New York Times newspaper not affected by the strike of delivery men now in its ninth day, says that it is mounting that the strike is adding time to the holiday season in the New York area and extending beyond Christmas.

"What is really beginning to worry merchants is the post-holiday period, the time for heavy clearance events and an array of white goods sales," the Times industry trades paper adds.

It says many stores have made inquiries about possible distribution of handbills and other promotional material for their house-to-house bases. Meanwhile stores were developing new techniques, new and sensory posters, loud speakers and pretty models in windows.

You Can't Beat a Book

Christmas shopping for a gardening friend or relative isn't all beer and skittles, as you have probably found out by now. You can't just go wandering around through the stores looking for inspiration for all the tools and seeds and gadgets so dear to the heart of the ardent gardener. Have been stored away in the stock rooms to make room for Christmas merchandise, and there isn't very much of a suitable nature on display.

If I had to make a last minute selection of a Christmas gift for a serious gardener, I think I would plump for a garden book of some kind. These have an almost universal appeal, and I have yet to find an ardent gardening fan—no matter how experienced—who could resist dipping his nose into a book devoted to his hobby.

In previous columns, I have reviewed in detail some good how-to-do-it books suitable for the novice gardener. In this class, my favorites are "The Complete Book of Garden Making" by Roy E. Hilles priced at $4.75, and "10,000 Garden Questions" compiled by F. F. Rockwell, editor in chief of the American Garden Guild which sells for about $4.

A book which has fascinated and infuriated me at the same time is "Gardening with Nature" by Leonard Wickenden Wickenden. It is one of the muck and compost boys, and an ardent follower of the teachings of the late Sir Albert Howard, father of organic agriculture.

He has no use at all for chemical fertilizers, and while I can't go along with all his theories, I must admit there is nothing of the crackpot about him and his book makes most stimulating reading. I can't find any price marked on my copy but I believe I paid about $3.75 for it.

Our children are having the usual budget troubles with their Christmas shopping, and all we hear around our house are plaintive wails of "What can I buy for a buck?" If this is your problem too, I have just the thing for you—a book on how to get it.

"Living with Homesteader" is a government publication written by I. A. P. Chan of the federal department of agriculture and it covers this subject as adequately as any book I have ever read or lost, regardless of price. The color photographs by Melvin of Ottawa, is out of this world and the cost is only $1 from the Queen's Printer, Ottawa.

No Logic to It

Stage Social Suicide

NEW YORK NANA: A favorite for the season when the new New York social register is published is today who's who's out, and trying to figure why.

It is generally recognized that marriage is a nonhostel person. Many divorces or separations are based on a variety of types are grounds for blackbaling.

To an outside observer, however, register reasoning isn't always logical. You can go to the stage and stay in. But marry an actor or actress and you're dead. A little family brawl in a night club can blacklist a couple, but you can shoot your husband and retain your register standing. You can't get in if you're a walk-in with no social connections, but you can get in if you're a dog, and nobody finds out before the book goes to press.

What nobody knows for sure, of course, is if people have been dropped by their own choice. To get out, just neglect to fill in the form and mail the cheque. Both John Lee Whitney and Alfred C. Vachon had eliminated themselves this way.

On the other hand there is the report of the section articles of an unfortunate who some years ago failed to make the required deposit, and was offered to buy the book for a couple of hundred thousand dollars. His ambitions remained frustrated.

On divorce register policy values. This year Sonny Varderbilt and P. Maupard are out too early divorce. But two ladies with the impressive total of four marriages apiece have stayed in. Mrs. Margaret Emerson, and Mrs. John Rowley of the former Mrs. William Hayward.

Well-known lawyers, still in the firm of the late superior Judge Edwards, and was bound to remark at the time "this is a better than anything I've seen in the past."

Richard Aldridge was dropped from the stage when he married Gertrude Lawrence. His listing was resumed when she died and dropped again when she married another actress. The fact that he himself has been a theatrical producer since 1946 bolsters the case.

Mary Ellen Beale, the 26-year-old daughter, has had no previous contact in and out of the social system. Her mother was barred when she married Irving Rosen. Mary Ellen made it in 1947 when she left her father's family. Dennis Harder, however, was dropped after he dropped the following year.

Some Plays and a Lawsuit

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Deborah Kerr arrived in Spain a few days ago with writer Peter Viertel whom she is expected to marry when she gets her contemplated divorce from Tony Bartley. Viertel was requested by Yul Brynner to reshape the Solomon role in "Solomon and Sheba" which Yul inherited from the late Tyrone Power.

Cecil B. De Mille is prepared to wait a year for the script of his boyhood saga to be written properly and plans to spend two and a half years producing the picture plus a $10,000,000 budget. There is nothing significantly about Mr. De Mille.

On the other hand, Joan Collins, beautiful brunette from London, is taking out American citizenship papers because in Britain she was regarded as a figure only. In Hollywood, she says, I'm allowed to act and for a big salary.

Therefore the king had required that South Carolina support for parliamentarianism and of the same time recognize North Carolina's financial pattern. South Carolina decided that he might be able to shift his own spades to North Carolina and that there would be more to one heart later.

Seeing both hands make the contract seem most administrable. Yet we would venture to guess that only a few top ranking pairs would realize that the absence of duplication would compensate for the lack of high card points in the combined hands. The big clubs and eight diamond selection of the final contract requires excellent judgment in a club contract there would

Sea Probe Uncovers Secrets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Scientists aboard the Russian research ship Vityaz have reported some new findings about deep ocean currents and some samples of bottom sediments indicating the existence of two separate ice ages more than 100,000 years ago.

They also told Wednesday of finding a type of deep-sea worm-like organism off Alaska, and also off California, which had not been known to inhabit the eastern Pacific area.

The deep currents were located and measured in the central and eastern Pacific, said Capt. Igor V. Sergeev, commander of the vessel, which is participating in the International Geophysical Year program.

Floating Remains Beacon Hill Deer?

A deer skin will be examined today in an effort to determine whether it came from the buck killed almost two weeks ago in Beacon Hill Park.

Police said the deer was shot in the park and game officials are looking for a hunter who is responsible for the killing. The deer was found floating in the water near the park and was shot in the head. The hunter is being sought for the killing of the deer.

German Treason Trial

Otto's 'Kidnapper' Acquitted

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgemuth, who former West German security chief Otto John claimed spirited him to East Germany, was acquitted yesterday of treason charges.
The West German Supreme Court said there was no evidence that the suave doctor's relations with East German Communists were treasonable or that he had kidnapped John, John defected to Communist East Germany July 20, 1954. Returning after 17 months in the East, he claimed Wohlgemuth drugged and kidnapped him for the Reds. John was convicted of treason two years ago, was sentenced to four years in prison, and was pardoned by President Theodor Heuss early this year.
Wohlgemuth admitted putting John in touch with high-ranking Communists. John, he said, believed a militarism was reviving in West Germany and was fed up with it. He testified that the security chief went over to the East voluntarily.

Not Just for Christians

New Outlook on Christmas Urged by Two Clergymen

TORONTO (CP)—Two Ontario clergymen, a Baptist and a Unitarian, have suggested that Christmas be called by some other name and celebrated by everyone—not just by Christians.
Rev. Ernest Nullmeyer of the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Barrie said in a radio sermon that Christmas has become so commercial it should be called by a different name.
Rev. J. Franklin Chidsey, pastor of Don Heights Unitarian Church in Toronto, has reversed the familiar church slogan and says: "Let's not put Christ back into Christmas."
Both ministers say Christmas is really a pagan feast and originally had nothing to do with Christianity.
Mr. Nullmeyer said: "Christmas was the counterpart to the pagan solar feast of the God Mathias. It started pagan and it has never changed."
"Christmas should be called a different name such as The Festive Season—complete with festive commercialism."
He said there is no record in the gospel of one word to celebrate the birth of Christ, nor was there any record of early churches celebrating Christmas.
Mr. Chidsey said "If we celebrate Christmas as a happy holiday instead of a Christian feast, people of every religion would be able to enjoy it together."
"Christians make other people feel like intruders. Let's not exclude people in Christ's name. We should let everybody celebrate Christmas—or not celebrate it at all."

Bill, 90 Weds Flo, 74

LONDON (AP)—Ninety-year-old Bill Ballard Thursday married his 74-year-old sweetheart.

The bridegroom first met Florence Emma Edwards 16 years ago at a home for retired bartenders in London.

They got to know each other and helped each other through the years. Then old Bill was moved to another home.

"He was just mooning and pining away for Mrs. Edwards—he wouldn't eat or do anything for himself," said the matron of the home.

"So I told him straight. I said: 'Why don't you pop a ring on her finger?' And he went out and did just that."

A special bungalow has been set aside on the institution's grounds as the home for the newlyweds.

Israel Stature Rises Among Poor Nations

By THOMAS WHITNEY
TEL AVIV (AP)—A few days ago 56 Burmese trainees arrived in Israel to spend a year living and working on collective and co-operative farms.

Here in Tel Aviv 60 delegates from countries of Asia and Africa are studying problems in co-operates to see how Israeli experience might be adapted to their own countries.

Ghana, in West Africa, sends out ships of the Black Star Steamship Line—a joint Israeli-Ghana venture intended to train Ghanaians in the field of merchant shipping. A nautical training centre in Ghana has Israeli instructors.

These are just three examples of a major effort Israel is making to encourage cordial relations with countries of Asia and Africa by making available Israeli experience and talents in economic and social development.

This work is winning respect and friends for Israel among countries which Arab nationalists and the Communists are seeking to turn against Israel through the Bandung alignment of Asian-African nations.

"For us Bandung no longer exists as a homogeneous group of nations," said one Israeli expert.

Ultimately, some Israelis hope, friendship with Asian and African nations may be a bridge to Arab countries which will facilitate an Arab-Israeli peace settlement.

Christmas Business Good in U.S.

NEW YORK (CP)—"Christmas-business will equal last year, and may be a little better. But it's not running away."

This cautiously phrased comment from M. E. Arnett, vice-president of Bullock's department store in Los Angeles, typifies the attitude of hundreds of U.S. retailers interviewed by The Associated Press in a survey of Christmas business prospects.

Most are confident of beating last year's record totals—thanks in part to slightly higher prices and an extra shopping day. But few see anything that resembles a boom.

"There's more cash in town this year," says Charles E. Boyd of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce. "But people aren't spending the money."

Brightest spot on the 1958 Christmas retail scene in the U.S. is Texas.

"There's no doubt but that the buying public has the money and a disposition to spend it," said a merchant in Fort Worth. "To say business is good is putting it mildly; for if it gets any better it will be terrific."

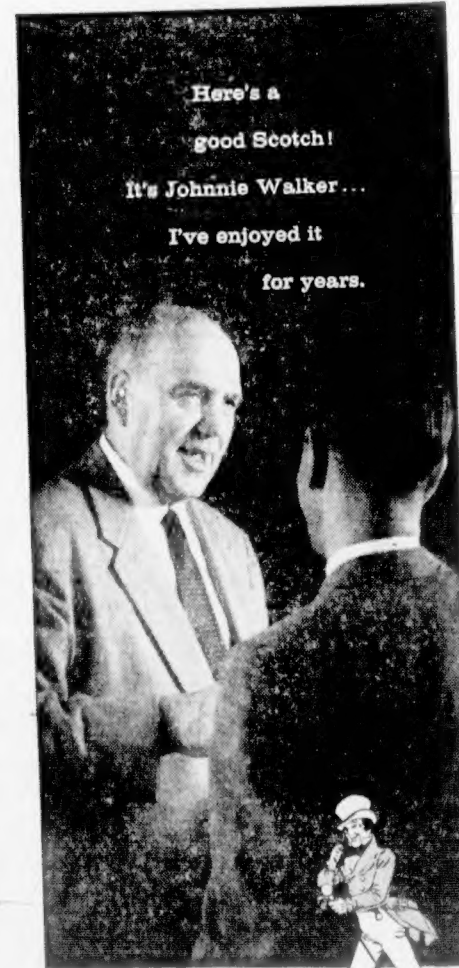

Manitoba Winner

Manitoba's Springfield riding elected Conservative Dr. Joseph B. Slogan, above, in a by-election which saw only 500 votes between the victor and Liberal runner-up Anton Weselak. The seat was formerly held by the late Val Yacula, Progressive Conservative.

A MESSAGE from the Telephone Company about your telephone calls at Christmas

Next to Santa, your telephone operator will be the busiest person on Christmas Day. To meet the expected heavy telephone demand, our full staff of local and long distance operators will be on duty all day to handle your calls.

These Christmas calls mean a lot to you, your family and friends, and our staffs will do their best to serve you.

On long distance calls: We suggest you let us put your calls through on the days or evenings before Christmas to avoid possible delays or disappointment on Christmas Day.

When you have placed your call there is no need to contact your operator again. She will work on it until it is completed.
